Dear Crazy: The American Psychology Association reported that 40% to 60% of men who abused their female partners also abused their children. Is this the kind of atmosphere in which you want your children raised? Your husband's refusal to seek marriage counseling indicates that he has no intention of changing his pattern. It's bad enough that he takes his hostility out on you daily. But for him to take pleasure in making your daughter cry is sick.

Please don't let your husband's refusal to go for counseling deter you from getting professional help to aid you in deciding how best to protect yourself and your children. Cruel words erode the self-esteem like the ocean eats away the shore. And for children to be exposed to it day after day can cause lifelong damage.

66. This letter is from _____.
1. an advice column
 2. a social issue feature
 3. a commentary column
 4. an opinion and analysis section
67. The counselor wrote this letter in response to _____.
1. the general public
 2. the Counselor Association
 3. a woman abused by her husband
 4. a man who regularly abuses his wife
68. Which of the following best concludes the counselor's answer?
1. Don't tolerate abuse.
 2. Divorce is the best way.
 3. Professionals can't help.
 4. Children must come first.
69. Which of the following lessons CANNOT be taken out from this case?
1. Still water runs deep.
 2. Life is not a bed of roses.
 3. The squeaking wheel gets oiled.
 4. Necessity is the mother of invention.
70. Which of the following means to "wear away gradually"?
1. erode
 2. abuse
 3. deter
 4. expose

By the time Debbie Clark took Adam, her autistic three-year-old son, to a music therapist, he could barely speak. At the music-therapy clinic at California State University in Northridge, therapists encouraged the autistic child to express himself by playing instruments and beating out rhythms on drums. They put conversations to song in order to get Adam talking.

“In three months, the change was phenomenal,” says Clark. “Before, Adam would never look at a stranger in the eyes, let alone speak. Now, after his music therapy session, he waves to the therapists and says, ‘Bye, Jim. Bye, Ron. See you next week.’ Believe me, that’s music to my ears.”

Researchers around the world are discovering music can help healing in a variety of ways. For example, burn victims are encouraged to sing while having their dressing changed experience less pain. Cancer patients who listen to music and practice improvising on instruments, for example, see their levels of stress hormones drop and their immune systems get stronger.

Part of music’s power comes from its ability to relieve anxiety, which can suppress immune defenses as well as intensify the experience of pain. Music, especially singing, takes a person’s mind off the suffering and soothes tension. “By helping patients relax, music eases pain and may even speed recovery,” says Richard Fratianne, Professor of Surgery at Case Western Reserve University.

71. What would be the best title for this article?
1. A Beautiful Song
 2. The Healing Power of Music
 3. The Music that A Child Loves
 4. The Problems of Autistic Children
72. According to the article, which groups of people have been treated with music-therapy?
1. Burn victims
 2. People with sleep problems
 3. Heart-disease patients
 4. Children with hearing problems
73. Which of the following describes Adam?
1. Enjoying talking alone
 2. Having difficulties with speaking
 3. Getting along well with other people
 4. Feeling depressed and sad most of the time
74. What is the effect of music-therapy on cancer patients?
1. Fewer cancer cells
 2. Longer recovery period
 3. Better hormones
 4. Stronger immune systems

75. Which of the following can be concluded from the passage?
1. Music can keep you in good health.
 2. Music therapy is the most effective treatment.
 3. Music can be used as an alternative treatment.
 4. It is necessary for doctors to study music therapy.
76. Which technique was used to help adam speak?
1. Playing with him.
 2. Allowing him to self-study.
 3. Encouraging him to join in activities.

4. looking at strangers in the eyes

Ever wished you could decide what to dream at night? A Japanese toymaker says it has a new gadget that can help you do just that.

Tokyo-based Takara Company says that its "Dream Workshop" stand - - shaped like an oversized cellular phone dock and about 14 inches tall - - can be programmed to help sleepers choose what to dream.

While preparing for bed, the user mounts a photograph on the device of who should appear in the dream, selects music appropriate to the mood - - fantasy, comedy, romantic story, nostalgia - - and records key word prompts, such as the name of a romantic crush.

Placed near the bedside, the dream-maker emits a special white light, relaxing music and a fragrance to help the person nod off.

Several hours later, it plays back the recorded word prompts, timed to coincide with the part of the sleep cycle when dreams most often occur. It then helps coax the sleeper gently out of sleep with more light and music so that the dreams are not forgotten.

The device targets sleep-deprived businessmen, a company official said. "There are many businessmen today who say they don't sleep because they are too busy. This gadget can be used to help them dream a good dream," said Takara spokeswoman Mayuko Hasumi.

In a study conducted on a group of men and women between the ages of 20-40, the device had a success rate of 22 percent in inducing dreams in which one of the prompt words appeared.

81. What is the main idea of this passage?

1. to report success in controlling a human's mind
2. to show how a new gadget helps us select our dreams
3. to reveal that technology can help solve the business dilemma
4. to point out that technology can do anything beyond imagination

Still Growing

The postwar baby boom is over, but the United States still has one of the highest growth rates of industrialized nations. Immigrants account for about a third of the growth. Now 285 million, the population may exceed 400 million by 2050.

African Giant

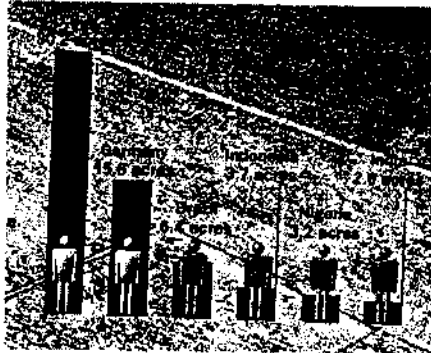

With an average of six children born to each woman, Nigeria is one of Africa's fastest growing nations and its most populous. By 2050 its current population of 114 million may explode to almost 300 million.

Rising Fast

In May 2000, India marked the birth of its billionth baby. Though family planning has been officially promoted since the 1950s, India will probably have 1.6 billion people by 2050 and pass China as the world's most populous nation.

● Industrialized countries
20 acres per person

A comparison of the ecological footprints of different nations shows how per capita consumption in the United States and Germany overshadows that of Brazil, Indonesia, Nigeria, and India. In fact, the footprint of a person in the U.S. is more than ten times as big as that of a person in India.
